The go-to source for explorers unlocking the vast mineral potential across Alaska & Canada's North

Alaska, British Columbia, Yukon Territory, Northwest Territories and Nunavut are among the richest mineral provinces on Earth. In the Fraser Institute Survey of Mining Companies, all five ranked in the Top 15 when it comes to mineral potential and Top 20 most attractive jurisdiction on Earth for mining investment.

Despite a slow start due to COVID-19 restrictions, mineral exploration in these northern regions quickly rebounded as more than 60 companies invested in unlocking the vast mineral potential of Alaska and Canada's North.

Read by mining executives looking for opportunities; researched by investors and analysts; and referenced by government agencies, the annual Mining Explorers magazine is the go-to source for the most accurate and comprehensive insights into the opportunities and challenges facing the companies exploring a minerals-rich swath of Earth's crust that spans 3,500 miles from Alaska to Nunavut.

Don't miss the chance to put your company in front of the mining decision makers who read this popular and informative annual magazine that showcases the companies unlocking the vast and underexplored mineral potential across Alaska and Canada's North.
